today in brief

Franco yields premier job

MADRID (UPI) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco has decided to hand over the premiership to Vice President Luis Carrero Blanco but retain his other jobs as chief of state and supreme commander of the armed forces, the Information Ministry announced today.

Sources close to the government said the change meant that Franco, 80, has taken the first step toward eventual retirement but that, as chief of state, he will continue to be Spain's leader.

Blast on C130 injures 7

SÀIGÒN (UPI) — Seven persons, including one American, were injured today when an explosive device in the luggage of a North Vietnamese officer blew up on the weekly liaison flight from Hanoi to Saigon, U.S. sources said.

The U.S. Air Force C130 transport returned safely to Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base, some 300 miles from where the explosion occurred.

A U.S. demolition team from Thailand is en route to Saigon to check the luggage, American observers at Tan Son Nhut said.

The sources said the senior North Vietnamese official on the plane admitted that the bag belonged to a member of his delegation.

Heath states China visit

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath has accepted an invitation to visit China, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the invitation was extended by visiting Chinese Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fai. A date for the visit will be fixed later, the sources said.

Menny backs wage boost

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Menny urged the Senate today to pass legislation that would increase the present $1.60 an hour minimum wage to $2.50 an hour within two years.

Menny endorsed a Senate bill, almost identical to one passed Wednesday by the House, that would boost the minimum wage to $2 immediately.

Senate farm bloc triumphs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate farm leaders Thursday defeated a challenge to a new farm support system under which growers would draw major crop subsidies only when prices fall below certain levels.

By an 80-14 roll call vote, a proposal to replace the new support plant with a five year farm bill with a plan to phase out cotton and grain subsidies by 1977. The vote indicated the farm bloc would have little trouble in retaining the "target price" system when the bill comes up for a final vote today.

US-Russian gas plan set

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate will be asked next week to adopt a no-day, across-the-board wage-price freeze unless the administration takes immediate action to curb inflation.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Thursday introduced an amendment to a pending federal financing bank bill that would impose the mandatory freeze on wages, prices, rents, interest rates and dividends.

Saigon snag slows Viet truce talks

PARIS (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger called off a meeting with Le Duc Tho of Hanoi today and a top North Vietnamese official said the two sides still have not finished their work on ceasefire violations.

It was the second time in two days the talks schedule was disrupted at the Americans' request. There was no explanation but observers said the snag could lie in repeated assertions by the Saigon government it would not sign a new cease-fire agreement.

Instead of the Kissinger-Tho meeting, the two sides held a technical session at lower level between Deputy Assistant Secretary of State William H. Sullivan and Hanoi's deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach at a Communist villa at suburban Gif Sur Yvette.

of the pesky overcooling problem and remedies.

The bold, four-hour spacewalk that ended Skylab's power shortage Thursday also vastly improved chances that six more astronauts will be able to stay up for two 50-day missions later this year. For the first time, engineers had a surplus of power and were looking for ways to make the best use of it.

Conrad already was looking forward to another spacewalk planned for June 19. One is normally planned to change film packs in the ship's solar observatory and Conrad suggested that a separate spacewalk be conducted the same day if engineers decide it is necessary to rig a second sunshade over Skylab.

The first results of the repaired solar power wing were that Skylab now had enough electricity for all its experiments, and enough to meet all housekeeping demands. The astronauts were told, for example, they could leave their water heater on for showers planned later today.

"Hoover," said the pilots in unison.

Skylab repaired

HOUSTON (UPI) — Skylab's astronauts saved their space station from another crisis today with emergency repairs on a too-cold cooling system and controllers on the ground tried to figure out a way to keep the problem from reoccurring.

Two hours after making the early morning repairs, Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz set an American space endurance record of 14 days and, barring further troubles, headed toward a world mark twice that long.

The pilots acted quickly to keep the water cooling pipes from freezing up, and bursting equipment. But temperatures later today were still colder than desired and engineers worked on methods to heat the system and fix it permanently.

"We really haven't solved it," said S. A. Liebergot, NASA environmental control specialist.

Flight director Charles Lewis said controllers were "in a holding action" while engineers here in Huntsville, Ala., searched for the source.

Open Watergate hearing sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate Committee urged a federal judge today to let it continue its hearings with television coverage and immunity for key witnesses, claiming the public deserved a full account of the scandal.

The appeal to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica came in response to a government request for a court-ordered blackout on television and radio coverage of the hearings on grounds that the exposure could jeopardize prosecution later.

Samuel Dash, the Senate committee's chief counsel, argued that federal attorneys had raised "obvious suspicions of a cover-up" as a result of "incomplete prosecution" at last January's trial of the original seven men charged in the Watergate bugging case.

Dash told the judge at a special hearing that the public was entitled now to find out all the details and it would be denied them if the Senate hearings were not conducted with full media coverage and immunity for some witnesses.

Archibald Cox, new special prosecutor in the Watergate investigation, had told Sirica that public testimony at the Senate hearings could endanger subsequent prosecution of witnesses testifying with immunity.

Philip Heymann, an aide to Cox, told Sirica today that the Senate committee was asking the court to do "an extraordinary thing—to order a witness to give self-incriminating testimony before a national television audience."

Heymann argued that federal prosecutors shared the Senate panel's desire for "full public disclosure" of all the facts, but said "it would be a perversion of justice if a determination can't be made in a reasonable period of time by a jury."

"Plainly, the possibility of early trials is threatened seriously—not hopelessly, not impossible—but seriously," Heymann contended.

Sirica, who presided over the original Watergate trial, appeared to side with Dash in his early questioning of the lawyers. He noted that it was "not unprecedented" for a congressional investigation to precede criminal indictments and said: "In the government's memorandum on this issue, it relies on cases where indictments have been returned. In this case, we have no indictments, no defendants. And—this makes, I think, a considerable difference."

In other Watergate-related developments:

—The New York Times said Charles W. Colson, former White House counsel, told federal investigators that John W. Dean ordered E. Howard Hunt to get out of the country June 19, two days after the Watergate break-in. Colson was quoted as saying that when Dean, former presidential legal counsel, told him of this "I said something to the effect of 'that is the dumbest thing I have ever heard. You will have the White House party to a fugitive from justice!'" Hunt pleaded guilty in January to charges of participating in the Watergate plot.

—A federal judge in New York said today his order barring public discussion of the indictment against Maurice H. Stans would not be violated if the former Commerce secretary and finance chief of the Nixon campaign were to appear before the Senate committee next week.

Missing man found?

BURLEY — Police attempted to verify reports today that a man missing since May 21 is in Steamboat Springs, Colo.

A brother of missing Dennis Morton, 29, Wendell, told officers in Gooding County Thursday saying he received a brief letter stating the young man was all right and in Steamboat Springs. It gave no other details.

The brother, Horace Morton, told officers he was certain the writing was that of his missing brother. He said the letter was signed "D," which is the way Dennis Morton usually signed letters or messages.

Morton was reported missing by his family May 21 after he left for Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, where he is studying to be a laboratory technician. He was not heard from again.

His abandoned pickup truck was found May 24 near the junction of Interstate 80 and Interstate 15 in Cassia County.

Since then, officers have conducted an air search and have combed the Snake River for the missing man.

Saigon may sign Paris agreement

By Chicago Daily News

SAIGON — As fighting across South Vietnam today surged to its highest level in almost two months, the Saigon government backed away from a day-old declaration that it would not sign any agreement growing out of the current Paris negotiations between Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

South Vietnam is now apparently willing to sign a document confirming the terms of the January Paris agreement on ending the war and to agree to specific measures to implement that accord and reduce hostilities.

Presidential adviser Kissinger and North Vietnamese politburo member Tho are authoritatively reported to be preparing the document in Paris after a one-day break.

South Vietnam, which Thursday said it would not sign a new peace agreement if one were denied by Kissinger and Tho, reportedly was objecting to efforts by the two negotiators to resolve political as well as military problems associated with ending the long conflict.

Differences between the allies apparently were worked out in a three-hour meeting late of President Nguyen Van Thieu and acting U.S. Ambassador Charles S. Whitehouse.

Government sources today said South Vietnam would still balk at signing any agreement if it violated the country's right to self determination but added that they didn't think there would be any problem with a document reaffirming the January pact.

In a 24-hour period ending this morning, more than 130 Communist-initiated truce violations were reported by the Saigon command, the highest number since April 14 and a 33 per cent increase over the daily average number of reported violations since late March.

Dollar's value falls across Europe, Asia

LONDON (UPI) — The dollar's value fell across Europe and Asia today, ending a brief rally from record lows earlier in the week. Gold prices jumped in early trading but failed to maintain the gain in the afternoon.

Bankers attributed the movement to what they described as discouraging economic news from the United States. Bankers said the announcement of a two per cent rise in American wholesale prices and the lack of a new anti-inflation package to emerge from President Nixon's cabinet meeting Thursday influenced the trading.

"Most of the selling pressure is coming from people who don't want to hold dollars over the weekend," a Swiss banker said.

The dollar opened .50 to 1.5 per cent lower across the continent, but recovered some of the lost ground by noon.

In Paris, the financial dollar used by tourists and speculators plunged down 1.5 per cent to 4.27 French francs at the opening, but rebounded to 4.29 by noon. This still left the rate down from Thursday's 4.3350 close.

"The trading has been very hectic and heavy," one French trader said.

The dollar also fell to a lesser extent on the London, Frankfurt, Zurich, Amsterdam, Brussels and Hong Kong markets.

Gold prices in the London, the world's most important bullion exchange, shot up $1.25 at the opening to sell at $120 but later settled in the range of $119 an ounce.

The later quotes left gold prices 25 cents above Thursday's $18.75 close and almost three times the "official" Washington price of $42.22.

Second Thoughts

The vast majority of Americans favor more trade and diplomatic contacts with China, if a recent survey can be projected to the population at large.

According to David J. Mahoney, president and chairman of Norton Simon, Inc., a public opinion survey covering all 50 states, commissioned by his company, disclosed that:

About 84 per cent of all those questioned favor increased diplomatic relations with the Chinese government.

Some 72 per cent favor increased trade with the Chinese, and more than half favor legislation removing obstacles from Chinese imports.

The latter numbers, Mahoney told a Commonwealth Club of California audience in San Francisco, are surprising in view of rising protectionist sentiment in America. But we should not, he cautioned, expect a sudden wave of trade with the mainland regime.

Even if we do business with China, it will be fairly modest. U.S. trade with China went from $5 million in 1971 to $92 million in 1972 and may get past the $350 million mark this year, making us China's second largest trading partner after Japan.

"But that isn't a lot," Mahoney points out. "China's total external trade last year was only $2.5 billion, which is small for a major country."

Mahoney visited China last year to conduct negotiations to import ginger root, edible oils and Mao-Tai, a Chinese ceremonial drink. Based on his observations, he foresees increasing demand from China for American equipment and technology.

"The best markets seem to be in items which will help China move ahead — film processing equipment, Geiger counters, food processing equipment, computer technology, petrochemicals, fertilizer." Also, if rumors that China has great oil reserves prove true, drilling equipment, pipelines and refineries.

On the negative side, says Mahoney, there doesn't seem to be much of a market among the Chinese for cosmetics, fashions or luxury items like cars and jewelry. As for clothing, Chinese garb "is almost uniform, with slight variations in tone and color."

The long-term prospects for increased trade with China will be greatly influenced by number of things, including the political future of Taiwan and the attitudes of the aging May Tse-tung's successors.

But the United States will do business with China, says Mahoney, because "we cannot afford to concede to our competitors a market that represents almost a quarter of the world's population.

While this potentially significant market will take time to mature, and in spite of recent indications of rising prices in China, I am very enthusiastic about our initial prospects for trade."

Computers, petrochemicals, high technology for ginger root, edible oils and Mao-Tai. Is there really that much cause for enthusiasm?

ROWLAND EVANS & ROBERT NOVAK

The Dangers Facing NATO

BRUSSELS — The dangers facing the 24-year-old NATO military alliance can be seen in the failure so far of quiet quest by Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, U.S. commander-in-chief for Europe, for monetary help to keep American troops in Europe.

Goodpaster, NATO supreme commander, is asking European members of NATO for much more help in easing the chronic U.S. balance-of-payments deficit, over $2 billion a year of which results from NATO costs. To avoid the outflow of 300,000 American troops in Europe labelled as mercenaries, the U.S. seeks no direct budgetary aid but wants balance-of-payment relief — perhaps by transferring dollar holdings of Western European governments to non-military programs in place of U.S. aid. Such transfers might deflate isolationists in the U.S. Senate, now gaining strength against a Watergate weakened President Nixon for unilateral U.S. troop withdrawals. They would then be deprived of their potent monetary argument. Thus, it is of great concern that the response to Goodpaster has been so negative.

As we reported from Bonn, Western European leaders are frantic at the thought of a major U.S. withdrawal. Yet, they do nothing to prevent it. Only West Germany now contributes economically to U.S. troops in Europe. The others want no part of it, and German officials say a greater burden for them is politically impossible.

The result: deepening apprehension at NATO's sprawling headquarters here. Although the ambassadors to NATO contend the alliance is imperishable after contributing to a generation of unprecedented European peace, they are disturbed by the contrast between the present military exertions of West and East.

The Soviet Union, while taking detente, is methodically continuing its qualitative build-up of aircraft and armor in Central Europe. Some 1,500 new Soviet tanks (T-62s plus improved versions that some call the T-63) have been brought into Central Europe to replace the T-54s, which are not being returned to Russia but kept on standby status. Particularly heavy tank concentrations have poured into Hungary, which Moscow contends is not in Central Europe and therefore not subject to the Vienna negotiations on mutual troop reductions.

No Western diplomat concludes from this that the Soviets plan to assault Western Europe. But some diplomats do believe the Kremlin's armaments programs are intended to overawe the NATO nations and, combined with a massive U.S. withdrawal, dominate them politically.

In response, the smaller NATO partners seem tired to military preparedness. Denmark is reducing its troop commitment. Belgium wants to cut the length of service for conscripts. Canada's troop contribution, though very high in quality, is very small.

One astute Western diplomat here observes that the European NATO nations were fielding over 400 divisions in 1959 on the eve of World War II but can barely scrape up 40 divisions today. "Western Europe is a monster," he explains. "It has a wonderful stomach and digestive apparatus but no muscle; no arms and no legs. It is totally oriented to consumption."

Nor have the European military establishments shown much interest in U.S. attempts to save billions of dollars by standardizing equipment (as the Warsaw Pact nations have done). "I would measure our progress in millimeters," a senior U.S. official told us.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Fertile Years

ROBERT ALLEN

Mood Of Congress

WASHINGTON — There is one thing Soviet Communist boss Leonid Brezhnev is NOT likely to do during his Washington visit later this month:

He will NOT address a joint session of Congress.

The White House is getting a strongly negative reaction from congressional leaders.

They are being sounded out on it and are decidedly unfavorable.

It is being pointedly recalled that a similar proposal was firmly rejected in 1959.

The Eisenhowe Administration wanted an invitation extended to the later Premier Khrushchev, but the bipartisan leaders of Congress balked. They made it emphatically clear they wanted no part of it.

As a substitute it was arranged for Khrushchev to address a luncheon at the National Press Club.

In keeping with the Club's traditional practice, the Kremlin ruler agreed to answer questions. In a brisk half hour give-and-take, he gave as good as he got — at times verging on the pugnacious.

The following year, Khrushchev attended the opening of the 15th session of the UN General Assembly in September — after the shooting down of the U-2 "spy" plane. President Eisenhower also was present, but the two leaders did not meet. While Eisenhower's address was conciliatory, he did not mention Khrushchev.

Similarly, the Russian did not refer to the President, but he did furiously denounce the U.S. as well as then-Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, and advocated the removal of the United Nations to Geneva, Vienna or Moscow.

During this UN visit, Khrushchev staged his famous tantrum of pounding on a desk with one of his shoes.

In the case of Khrushchev, the White House is being advised that Brezhnev be invited to address the National Press Club instead of a joint session of Congress. There will be no problem in arranging the former, as the Club has long been a forum for world leaders.

Whether Brezhnev would accept this substitute is still to be determined.

Also still undecided is whether he will visit the UN and speak there.

Logging ominously over Brezhnev's forthcoming Washington visit is Sen. Henry Jackson's proposal to bar most-favored-nation treatment to countries that "deny their citizens the right or opportunity to emigrate by imposing the payment of more than nominal taxes, fees or other charges."

Target of Jackson's measure in the form of an amendment to the administration's trade bill is the U.S.S.R. — which drastically restricts emigration by exacting heavy exit payments.

Because of the powerful bipartisan congressional support behind Jackson's bill, it is a menacing stumbling-block to the President's plan to grant Russia most-favored-nation status and other trade concessions.

Jackson's measure is co-sponsored by 76 senators and 270 House members — a decisive majority of both chambers.

Unless the administration can't somehow surmount this obstacle, Jackson's amendment is certain to be written into the trade bill.

In an effort to avert that, the President had a series of private meetings with congressional leaders and influential Jews — in which he has stressed the Kremlin's recent suspension of confiscatory taxes on Jews desiring to go to Israel.

As a result of this new policy, the President told a group of congressional leaders, he had "insurances from Soviet authorities" that 95.5 per cent of the Jews in Russia are now free to leave. He gave no hint as to the identity of the authorities.

Sen. Jackson promptly challenged this claim.

Rising, the powerful Washington state Democrat

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What can we ladies expect who are taking the birth-control pill and entering our menopause? Do normal periods continue until we no longer take the pill and how, if this is the case, do we know when to discontinue the pill without changing pregnancy?

Does the birth-control pill prolong what used to be considered the normal fertile years?

Personally, I'm quite anxious to get this menopause bit underway, but would feel quite insecure now with any other birth-control method.

Your comment on this subject would be of great interest to many couples who most certainly do not want to start another family in their late 40s — Mrs. R. B.

Nominal periods will continue up until menopause for as long as you take the pill. All the pill does is provide an artificial signal to the ovaries not to release the egg. The ovaries get this signal naturally when conception has occurred.

You might say that the pill is misleading the ovaries to "believe" that conception has occurred. There is more than a little confusion over the whole subject of the pill and I suppose only time will overcome this.

When menopause comes, usually in the late 40s or early 50s, the periods will stop because that's what menopause means, the cessation of the menstrual cycle. These will stop — with or without the pill — when they are supposed to stop for you.

Pills with a large estrogen content may cause sporadic bleeding after menopause, but these are not "periods."

No, your fertile years will not be extended beyond normal because of use of the pill. For your peace of mind, you might continue using the pill for six months or a year after your periods stop.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am four months pregnant and very worried by the saying that, if a pregnant woman reaches over her head, she can wrap the umbilical cord around the baby's neck and choke it. — M. L. M.

No, there's no truth to that saying. The fetus (forming baby) is so well protected in the womb, and not harmed only by a violent blow to the abdomen. There is no way that, any action by you could cause the cord to wrap around the baby's neck. If it happens, as occasionally it does, it is the result of the movement of the fetus within the womb, and not the result of anything you do or don't do.

Indeed, your physical activities have no effect unless you tend to abort.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you be kind enough to set my mind at ease on the following:

Among persons who have had the gall bladder removed, what percentage have further trouble? What is done about it? — S. M. N.

I can make a couple of general observations.

If the gall bladder has been removed, it is rather rare to have recurrent trouble in the biliary tract. In one study of 2,000 gall bladder operations only about 4 per cent had recurrent symptoms. In half of these, stones were present in the common bile duct or in the stump of the gall bladder duct.

Secondary operations were necessary for relief.

Lots Of Gas

Douglas E. Bean, director of the Idaho Petroleum Council, Boise, dropped us a line to report that total gasoline consumption for both highway and non-highway uses in Idaho reached 463.14 million gallons in 1972. He said that figure represented a 7.2 per cent increase over the previous year compared with a 6.5 per cent nationwide rise.

In 1971, Idaho's gasoline consumption amounted to 431.8 million gallons.

Because of the surging demand for gasoline, Bean said the Petroleum Council was suggesting ways the motorist could save on consumption:

(1) Keep your car's engine well-tuned, with special attention to fuel and air filters, plugs and points and emission control devices.

(2) See that your tires are properly inflated.

(3) Drive at moderate speeds; avoid "jackrabbit" starts.

(4) Anticipate traffic situations to avoid quick stop-and-go action in your driving. Accelerate gradually and avoid "floorboarding" your accelerator to achieve cruising speed.

(5) Don't idle your engine for long periods while parked.

(6) Whenever possible, use car pools or mass transit for commuting from outlying areas to offices and plants.

Because of the powerful bipartisan congressional support behind Jackson's bill, it is a menacing stumbling-block to the President's plan to grant Russia most-favored-nation status and other trade concessions.

Jackson's measure is co-sponsored by 76 senators and 270 House members — a decisive majority of both chambers.

Unless the administration can't somehow surmount this obstacle, Jackson's amendment is certain to be written into the trade bill.

In an effort to avert that, the President had a series of private meetings with congressional leaders and influential Jews — in which he has stressed the Kremlin's recent suspension of confiscatory taxes on Jews desiring to go to Israel.

As a result of this new policy, the President told a group of congressional leaders, he had "insurances from Soviet authorities" that 95.5 per cent of the Jews in Russia are now free to leave. He gave no hint as to the identity of the authorities.

Sen. Jackson promptly challenged this claim.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, which now supplies virtually all non-Communist countries with nuclear fuel, will have to decide what to do about meeting this foreboding competition and retaining this immensely valuable market.

NEW CHAIRMAN of National Governors Conference, Daniel Evans of Washington, (left), receives gavel from retiring chairman Marvin Mandel of Maryland. (UPI)

Governors believe influence growing

By PAUL HOPE

Washington Star-News

STATELINE, Nov. — The nation's governors seem to feel that the White House personnel shakeup and the changed political climate growing out of the Watergate scandal may give them a good opportunity to exert more influence in national affairs.

As the governors ended a three-day conference here, there was bipartisan endorsement of the appointment of Melvin R. Laird as White House chief of domestic policy.

And there was strong support for what may be a bigger role for Vice President Spiro T. Agnew in the development of domestic policy and in serving as a link between the governors and the White House.

Sources said here that two former governors are likely to be appointed to administration posts — probably within the domestic policy council — as Nixon seeks to get more input from political professionals on the White House staff. There was no immediate indication of which former governors were under consideration.

There was considerable feeling among the governors that in the wake of the Watergate scandal, the White House will open its operations beyond the tight inner circle that has determined policy the last four years.

The appointment of Laird, former Congressman and former secretary of defense, was hailed as the installation of a man well versed in politics, who knows his way around Washington and is on good terms with Congress.

Laird fills the post vacated by John D. Ehrlichman, who is deeply entangled in the Watergate investigation. Both the outgoing chairman of the national governors conference, Democratic Gov. Marvin Mandel of Maryland, and the incoming chairman, Republican Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, said Laird's appointment adds "some badly needed 'professionalism' to the White House operation."

Both governors also called for a restoration of the vice president's role as liaison between the White House and the governors. When Nixon took office in 1969, he said that Agnew, a former governor of Maryland, would play a major role in the development of domestic policy. But Agnew never has cracked the tight White House inner circle of domestic policy advisers headed by Ehrlichman.

Several months ago, Nixon moved the office of inter-governmental relations from Agnew's jurisdiction to the domestic policy council.

But when Nixon shook up White House personnel as a result of the Watergate scandal, it was announced that Agnew would become vice chairman of the policy council and would have a greater role in formulating domestic policies.

Agnew said here his new role has not been defined specifically yet, but he told the governors he was ready and willing to carry the ball for them.

"Although at the moment, I have no formal on-going line assignment in intergovernmental relations, my continuing responsibility to be close and available to the governors, mayors and county officials is still in effect," he said.

"I feel it is important that there be someone at the executive level in Washington who has been through these crucial problems you face day in and day out in state government," he said.

Mandel echoed that at a news conference and said he looked forward to having Agnew in a more prominent role in domestic policy coordination.

Agnew was among several top administration officials who "ought to put out the fires of discontent among the governors who have a wide range of complaints."

Some of the governors have serious misgivings about Nixon's proposed "special revenue sharing" program that would replace the current system of providing federal financial aid to states and localities.

Nixon's plan is to consolidate federal grants for several hundred specific programs into a few broad categories. Many governors feel their states will get short-changed in the changeover.

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Casper Weinberger, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development James T. Lynn, and Domestic Policy Council Director Kenneth Cole sought to assure the governors that they would not lose money.

The Premier had planned to restore his declining popularity by an active "multipolar" diplomacy to be carried out by a series of visits to foreign countries this year.

Russians ask Tanaka visit delay

By New York Times Service

The Russians have invited instead a Japanese parliamentary delegation for talks with top Soviet leaders.

The Soviet Ambassador in Tokyo, Oleg A. Troyanovsky, told Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira his government had found it inconvenient to have Tanaka visit in the latter part of August. He did not say why.

The Soviet government's reluctance to receive Tanaka has caused much embarrassment to the Japanese government, and particularly to Tanaka.

The Premier had planned to restore his declining popularity by an active "multipolar" diplomacy to be carried out by a series of visits to foreign countries this year.

Magruder opens own business

By ROBERT L. BUCHANAN
Washington Star-News writer

WASHINGTON — Jeb Stuart Magruder, former deputy director of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, has formed a management consultant business — Metropolitan Research Services.

And while Magruder continues working full-time at the 1973 inaugural committee, Robert C. Odle, the 29-year-old office manager for the campaign committee, who took some of Magruder's files home after the Watergate break-in arrests, is tending to the new business for Magruder.

Odle has helped arrange for office space, clerical help and telephone service through Courtesy Associates.

Courtesy Associates rents space and provides clerical, telephone answering and travel services to businesses and companies who want a Washington office; but do not want to hire and manage a full-time staff.

Odle has told officials of Courtesy Associates that he was "emphatically not an associate of Magruder" in the business.

In the application that all businesses must file with Courtesy Associates, Magruder described his business as a "marketing and management consultant firm."

He said that all his clients are firms situated outside the Washington area.

Magruder was unavailable for comment. A co-worker at the inaugural committee where Magruder has worked since resigning a Commerce Department post, said he said he was under the impression that Magruder was working full-time on the committee's final report, due near the end of next month.

Thomas Burke, vice-president for public relations at Marriott, said Magruder was not making enough money at the committee to "keep him in clover." He said Magruder has been paid about $1,000 a month for the last two months. Burke said that Magruder would need a job after the inaugural committee position ends, and speculated that it would take at least two months or so to get his consultant business going.

Asked if the Marriott Corp. might be among the firms hiring Magruder, Burke replied, "No chance."

Asked if the Marriot Corp. does not hire consultants, Burke said, "We hire consultants for specific tasks," he said, "but there is nothing Magruder could do for us."

In 1969, Magruder was named a deputy to Herbert G. Klein, outgoing director of communications at the White House. Magruder was assigned to help organize the re-election committee during its early days.

After the election, Magruder became director of the inauguration committee, and after the inauguration moved to a $36,000-a-year Commerce Department job. He quit that job after the Watergate scandal heated up.

Odle, who was office manager for the re-election committee, told the Senate Watergate Committee that on June 17, the day of the arrests at the Watergate, Magruder telephoned from California and directed that Odle and another committee aide, Robert Reisner, take home certain files from Magruder's office for safekeeping.

Odle said that he now suspects the file contained "things which have no place in a political campaign." But Odle said that he never looked at the file or asked why they should be removed.

No Laos peace seen

By Washington Star-News

VIENTIANE, Laos — Lao officials and foreign diplomats here are pessimistic about whether the present Kissinger-Tao talks in Paris can achieve peace or a meaningful settlement of the Indo-China conflict, even if the two negotiators agree to a new list of points.

This view is based on North

Vietnam's failure to implement Chapter 7, Article 20 of the January Vietnam cease-fire agreement on Laos and North Vietnamese military and political moves since then in Laos.

Diplomats say this indicates North Vietnam has no intention of withdrawing from Laos and that Hanoi will continue to use South Laos as a base area and infiltration route into South Vietnam even if Tao again signs an agreement with Kissinger to withdraw.

The Lao cease-fire agreement of February stipulated that withdrawal of foreign troops from Laos must follow 60 days after formation of a Lao coalition government.

The communist Pathet Lao consistently have put forward harder and more unacceptable terms, including division of Laos into two zones. Diplomats believe that this has been done at North Vietnamese insistence so that a government could not be formed and therefore the 60-day period for withdrawal could not begin. This gives north Vietnam the excuse to remain in Laos, particularly the Ho Chi Minh Trail, base area.

Nixon aide admits perjury

By Chenglo Sun-Times
WASHINGTON — The former scheduling director of President Nixon's re-election campaign has testified he perjured himself before the Watergate grand jury and in court at the request of deputy campaign director Jeb Stuart Magruder.

Herbert L. Porter told the Senate Watergate Committee yesterday that he lied "out of fear of group pressure, of not being a team player." He said that Magruder once admitted committing perjury 12 times himself and that Magruder said that he expected to be indicted for it.

Porter's testimony was the first direct evidence that last January's Watergate trial, which resulted in the conviction of two defendants and five others pleading guilty, was tainted by perjury. In late

March, James W. McCord Jr., who was convicted along with G. Gordon Liddy, wrote U.S. Judge John J. Sirica that perjury was committed at the trial and some defendants had been pressured to plead guilty. McCord later told the special Senate investigating Watergate committee that Magruder had committed perjury.

Porter began telling the truth to federal Watergate prosecutors this April, he said, after a street-corner conversation with Magruder. "It's all over," Porter noted. Magruder was saying, "The President has directed everybody to tell the truth."

According to Porter, Magruder told him on April 14 that a former presidential adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, was "really shocked" when Magruder told him "the whole story" about Watergate. Porter said Magruder told him that another key figure, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, had pledged to "deny complicity to the end."

In other testimony, Porter said that up to now he has appeared before the Watergate grand jury only once — last August, when he lied — and has not been called since he began telling the truth.

In another statement raising questions about the conduct of the prosecution, Porter said he was never asked last year whether Magruder advised him to commit perjury, even though the prosecution and grand jury were told in July of an attempt to get another witness, Hugh Sloan Jr., to lie.

Sloan has said Magruder asked him to understate the amount of money given to Liddy, a Watergate conspirator. Sloan has said he refused and told the prosecution about the Magruder approach.

Porter said that, contrary to what Sloan had been asked, Magruder tried to get him to overstate the amount he had disbursed to Liddy, but Porter could not say why. He said he refused to go along with that piece of perjury.

Porter said, however, that he did agree to corroborate a phone "Magruder" account of what Liddy was authorized to do with money allocated to him. The story, repeated by both Magruder and Porter in court, was that Liddy was authorized to spend $100,000 to pay 10 agents $1,000 a month for 10 months to infiltrate potentially violent groups and determine whether they represented a threat to the stand-in speakers for Nixon.

Porter had been hired by the re-election campaign to handle the "surrogate candidates" program, in which high-ranking elected and appointed officials spoke on behalf of Nixon.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a member of the committee, said after the hearings that Porter's testimony may result in the convictions of Liddy and McCord being thrown out.

Liddy has been sentenced to a minimum term of six years and eight months. McCord is to be sentenced June 15.

Haldeman claims Nixon deceived by John Dean

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former presidential chief of staff H. R. Haldeman says it was 11 weeks ago that President Nixon first demanded a full, written accounting of his administration's involvement in the Watergate scandal.

Haldeman says Nixon based his public statement last summer, that "this very bizarre incident" did not involve the people around him, on second-hand assurances from his legal aide, John W. Dean III.

Dean was asked repeatedly who was responsible for the break-in, Haldeman said, and reportedly said no one in the White House had anything to do with it. Then, last March 22, Dean was instructed by Nixon to submit a full, written report — and Nixon was unsatisfied with the results, according to Haldeman.

Haldeman made his fullest public accounting of his Watergate knowledge to date in a sworn deposition in connection with the Democratic party's $6.4 million civil damage suit against the Committee to Reelect the President (CRP). The deposition was made public Thursday.

Haldeman also said the President had from the beginning "a desire that the fact be known, cleared up and established in the public mind" even before the November election so that doubts would not persist.

Haldeman quoted Dean as saying Jeb Stuart Magruder, who was deputy to campaign manager John N. Mitchell at Nixon headquarters, had advance knowledge of the Watergate break-in, as well as "possibly" Mitchell. Haldeman said he reportedly asked Dean who was responsible for the break-in and Dean repeatedly told him he did not know.

Krogh refuses testimony

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh has backed out of his agreement to testify before the Watergate West grand jury because it may indict him. His former boss, John Ehrlichman, was expected to show up as scheduled to be today's star witness.

Ehrlichman was to appear today along with Charles Colson, former White House special counsel.

Krogh, who earlier said he intended to take "full responsibility" for the burglary at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, will not appear as scheduled, District Attorney Joseph Busch said Thursday.

Krogh's former lawyer, William Treadwell, had agreed with the district attorney's office that Krogh would appear before the grand jury voluntarily, and without the protection of an immunity grant.

Krogh replaced Treadwell with a new lawyer, Stephen Shulman, the district attorney's office said.

Shulman said he had advised Krogh not to testify on the grounds that Krogh is probably the main target of the grand jury investigation.

Ellsberg theorized after his testimony that since Busch has granted immunity to all those who admitted carrying out the burglary — basically, the same team arrested later in the Watergate affair — the purpose of the investigation is to bring charges against "the higherups" who ordered it.

In his letter to President Nixon resigning from the government after his role was revealed, Krogh said he had "an overriding desire to accept responsibility" for the break-in.

In a statement given earlier to district attorney's investigators, Krogh said that general authorization for covert activity in the Ellsberg investigation was given him by Ehrlichman, then the President's top domestic affairs assistant.

Nixon told CIA to block FBI

WASHINGTON (UPI) — H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff, said he acted on President Nixon's request, when he urged CIA officials to block an FBI investigation into funds funneled through a Mexican bank and used in part for the Watergate break-in, it was learned Thursday.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House subcommittee on intelligence operations, told newsmen Haldeman said, in three hours of closed-door testimony that Nixon wanted the FBI probe halted but Haldeman could not give any reasons.

Nedzi said Haldeman was asked why the President was so concerned about the Mexican aspect of the FBI investigation but "there was no satisfactory response because of lapses of memory."

Deputy CIA Director Vernon Walters testified earlier that he was asked during the meeting with Haldeman, held June 23, to advise the FBI that an investigation of the $69,000 in "sluadered" funds would jeopardize the CIA's covert operations in Mexico.

Nedzi said when Haldeman went before his panel Thursday "substantial conflicts" developed between the testimony of the former White House aide and that of CIA officials.

Nixon, in his White House statement of May 22, said he asked Haldeman and his former domestic adviser, John Ehrlichman, to make sure that the FBI investigation did not "expose either an unrelated covert operation of the CIA or the activities of the White House investigations unit."

Cenarrusa rejects petitions

BOISE (UPI) — The attorney for petitioners trying to recall a state legislator is anticipating bringing a petition to the Fourth District Court today for a writ to force the Secretary of State to accept questioned petitions.

Stanley D. Crow, Boise, announced the plan Thursday after Secretary of State Pete T. Cenarrusa rejected a modified batch of recall petitions against Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello. He also announced plans for a new petition campaign in addition to the court battle to validate the old one.

Cenarrusa rejected them on the legal advice of Attorney General W. Anthony Park. He first rejected them May 30 because 2,230 of the 2,559 signatures presented did not have the required "Pocatello" post office address.

The petitions were submitted earlier this week with "Pocatello" written in, but Park advised rejection since he said a third party could not rehabilitate the signatures in that way.

Crow was handed the rejected petitions Thursday by Assistant Secretary of State John F. Craner, along with a copy of Park's six-page opinion. Then Crow said he would petition Fourth District Court today.

"The main reason for seeking an order requiring the Secretary of State to accept the petitions is that as long as the present interpretation [of the recall law] is followed, the right of recall is effectively abrogated," Crow said.

He said if they simply file new petitions, "They might also be approved and we could come back after getting 2,200 signatures and be told we're supposed to have the word 'Idaho' or the Zip code or the middle name of the person."

signing it or maybe the date was supposed to be written out instead of in numbers or some such thing."

Crow said besides bringing the mandamus action, the petitioners would go through the process of once again going to the Secretary of State with an initial petition and asking him to approve that form. He said on March 6, Cenarrusa approved the form which was used, and which did not include the word "Pocatello" as the name of the post office.

"Hopefully, we'll have him approve it and know it is approved," Crow said.

ACC drops age requirement

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI) — The Alpine Competition Committee (ACC) meeting during the National Ski Association (USA) convention here Thursday dropped the age limit requirement of 21 for ski racers on the U.S. Talent Squad.

The change is one of four major decisions made during the meeting. Previously, the age limit for both men and women was 21. The ACC had discussed lowering the age to 19 before making the decision to drop the limit altogether.

Another major change in the talent squad — which is composed of the best racers out of each division in the country and from which the national B team is selected — is that national coaches will no longer make selections. All squad members will be named from a national point list and the International Ski Federation. Before, national coaches named five squad members.

In addition, the ACC voted to have members of the squad automatically entered in all international point races, except the World Cup. Previously, all members of the A and B teams were automatically entered. Two years ago, talent squad members entered, but last year entries were left up to individual USSA divisions.

The fourth action taken Thursday was that if an automatic entry is sick or injured, the division he or she represents can make a substitution for that spot. Before, the host division of a meet was given the option of filling that missing entrant.

Agency hearings slated in Boise

BOISE (UPI) — Existing state agencies that are to be combined into no more than 20 departments by 1975 will get a chance June 25-29 to voice their ideas on governmental reorganization.

The State Reorganization Commission agreed Thursday to conduct hearings on those dates in Boise. State Sen. C.C. "Coy" Chase, D-St. Maries, said 30 to 45 minutes would be allotted each agency during the hearings so administrators can explain what functions they are performing and how things should be "shuffled," in the reorganization.

Public hearings are to be conducted at a later time after the initial agency hearings, Chase said.

The commission also approved a $59,961 budget for the salaries and related costs of the reorganization commission staff.

The legislative appropriation to the commission was $110,000, all of which is from revenue sharing funds.

An additional $20,000 was approved for committee travel and expenses, and a maximum of $16,000 for the services of legal counsel.

In discussing reorganization, special commission counsel Robert E. Smylie suggested the State Auditor's office as a possible home for Idaho's 16 state-sanctioned commodity commissions.

Retract claims ordered

BOISE (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission has directed Boise Tire Co. to publish advertising retracting claims they made that Uniroyal Zeta steel radial tires are rated No.

in quality design and service.

Regional FTC director William C. Erxleben, Seattle, said the FTC accepted a consent order prohibiting the company from misrepresenting the Zeta tires.

Boise Tire, 1601 Front St., Boise, is also forbidden to make rating or comparison claims for tires unless the claim is fully substantiated by controlled scientific tests.

Court upholds judgment

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Supreme Court Thursday upheld Sixth District Court judgment entered against Hansen Chevrolet Co., and Tri-State National Bank.

Respondents Tapper Chevrolet Co., and Lyle G. Tapper Jr., Montpelier, started the action for performing a real estate sales contract, and the motion was granted by district court.

Staters study Idaho water

BOISE (UPI) — Legislation concerning Idaho Water and an investigation into the "Benewah bugging" captured the spotlight at the American Legion Gem Boys State Thursday, and more action is expected today.

Delegates passed a house bill which forbids water within the state from being moved across state lines either by shipping or by building physical structures designed for that purpose.

Delegates also passed a joint memorial urging Congress to enact legislation to provide federal funding for the assistance of the U.S. Olympic Team beginning in 1976.

Boys State Gov. John Garnbon, Boise, plans to sign the house water bill. The bill contained an exception in the case of a national emergency.

The "Begewah bugging" brought delegates interest to a peak as they conducted judicial sessions to uncover the facts of the case.

Five boys were charged with criminal conspiracy, burglary, bribery and interception of oral communications, based on the bugging of the Benewah Room at Boise State College during a Boys State session.

The bugging was planned by counselors to demonstrate to delegates the need for quick, efficient litigation, counselor Mark Ingram, Paul, Idaho, said.

TWIN FALLS — The Heritage Singers USA, religious music stylists, will appear June 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

The 16 singers and musicians use traditional and contemporary Christian music in performances throughout the United States in an attempt to reveal through music the fundamentals of Christianity, according to director, Max Mace.

"The whole human race," he said, "needs the ministrations, healing and saving support of Christ. We can serve that Christian purpose better than we are doing."

Members of the quintet include Mary Clem, religious education major from Salem, Ore.; Kathy Mayers, music major from Crescent City, Calif.; Robbinette Powell, elementary education major from Hayward, Calif.; Jim Thurman, sociology major, Boise, and Bonnie Woodbeck, English major, Salem, Ore.

Rev. Garrison said Northwest Nazarene College is a full-accredited liberal arts college sponsored by the Church of the Nazarene. ## Conference set on alternatives

ANAHEIM, Calif. — The Alternative To Apathy Conference, or ATAC, to be held by Melodyland Hotline Center from Oct. 19-22, has already attracted nationwide interest.

Center Director George Wakeling says "We believe over 1,000 people will be coming from all over North America to attend ATAC."

Melodyland Hotline Center is directly across from the main entrance to world-famous Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif. Wakeling indicated that many probation officers, juvenile officers and family and marriage counselors, are particularly interested in ATAC's concepts.

"We find the suicide rate rapidly increasing everywhere," Wakeling continued. "It seems that a greater percentage of our population can no longer cope with their personal problems. Every age, every life style, every ethnic group and every educational level is besieged with personal problems, problems they can't handle."

"ATAC will be the coming together of respected authorities in every area of personal problem counseling."

They'll be teaching seminars giving instruction and techniques and answers to any question some participants may have", concluded Wakeling. In addition, the center's full-time staff will actively participate.

Wakeling, a nationally recognized authority in the field of personal-problem counseling, said guest speakers for ATAC are Dr. Ralph Wilkerson, Dr. Walter R. Martin, author of the best-seller "Kingdom of the Cults"; Ron Winckler and Mike Warnke.

The visiting church authority will present a new film entitled "Meet the Mormons" which shows church members in typical activities worldwide. The spokesman is expected to enlarge on the theme of what church teachings mean to those who accept and practice them.

The conference session will be held Sunday at 10 a.m. in the Stake Center, 2050 Normal Avenue. Stake President Isaac William Lee, 1143 Overland Ave., says visitors are welcome.

Idaho milk output up

BOISE (UPI) — Milk production in Idaho during April at 140 million pounds was up two per cent from the same month a year ago, a federal-state crop report said today.

American cheese output at 3,940,000 pounds was up six per cent but creamy butter production at 1,040,000 pounds was down 17 per cent.

Ice cream production at 30,000 gallons was up 27 per cent from April a year ago.

Idaho dairymen received an average of $1.55 per pound of milk fat used for American cheese during the month—14 cents more than a year ago.

For April milk going into butter they got $1.50 per pound of milkfat or 16 cents more than a year ago.

Prices received by Idaho farmers for agricultural products were mostly higher on May 15 compared with a month earlier, the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said.

Price increases were noted for wheat, oats, barley, mixed grain, potatoes, dry beans, alfalfa hay, beef cattle and calves.

Price declines were seen for beef cows, lambs, hogs, eggs and milk.

Alfalfa seed production in the state during 1972 at 18,540 pounds was the second highest on record, surpassed only by the crop 10 years earlier which reached 20,000,000 pounds.

Red Clover production in the state during 1972 at 18,640,000 pounds was the second highest of record, surpassed only by the crop 10 years earlier which reached 20,000,000 pounds.

Growth slowed

BOISE (UPI) — A public hearing is planned by the Public Utilities Commission at Hailey July 18 on a petition seeking extended area or toll-free telephone service between the Carey and Hailey, Ketchum and Sun Valley exchanges.

The petition was filed by the Blaine County Farm Bureau residents of Blaine County. Both the Idaho Telephone Company and Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company would be affected.

Program dropped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1945 the Agriculture Department started a plentiful foods promotion program to point out on a monthly basis that foods were in heavy supply in supermarkets and good bargains.

Wednesday, the department announced it had cancelled the program. A spokesman said the action was taken because so few food "bargains" were eligible for promotion activity in recent months.

Church endorses farm amendment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Senate Wednesday passed an amendment to the pending farm bill. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, says would make promoting and encouraging family farming operations a national policy.

The amendment states that "any significant expansion of large scale corporate and vertically-integrated farming enterprises would be detrimental to the national welfare."

The amendment directs the federal farm programs to be administered in such a manner that they will in no way "place the family farm operation at an economic disadvantage."

Church said the amendment directs the secretary of agriculture to submit a written report containing current information on trends in family farm operations to Congress by July 1 each year.

FFA contests set

MOSCOW — State Future Farmers of America judging contests are scheduled on the University of Idaho campus Wednesday through Friday, June 20-22.

About 500 high school boys, representing 50 FFA chapters across the state, are expected to be on-hand for competition, according to Dr. D. L. Kindisch, head of the U.S. Agricultural Education Department in the College of Agriculture.

Kindisch, who is in charge of contest arrangements, said a number of high school girls are also expected to compete.

The Wednesday schedule is livestock, dairy products and farm mechanics judging. On Thursday, FFA members will judge dairy cattle, poultry and crops.

The final judging event will be the meats-contest-Friday morning. It will be followed by an 11:30 a.m. awards assembly at which all winners will be announced.

Three team prizes and three individual awards are made in each contest. The highest recognition of the entire meet is the William Kerr Memorial Sweepstakes award, presented to the FFA chapter with the largest overall point total. Last year's sweepstakes winner was the Meridian Chapter.

State contest winners will represent Idaho in contests this fall at the national FFA convention in Kansas City.

Meat fat checked

New device measures fat content of meat

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new device was demonstrated Wednesday which measures the fat content of meat on butchers' shelves. An estimated 1,000 models are expected to be in use in supermarkets in widely scattered sections of the United States by the end of the year. The analyzer was devised by agricultural engineer Karl H. Norris and electronic technician George F. Button Jr. Both work for the Agricultural Research Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md.

The machine, which looks like commercial meat scales, was developed and made by Neotec Corp., also of Beltsville. Neotec president R. D. Rosenthal said the first volume delivery to supermarkets will be made in September.

Aide says aging need less fat

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (UPI) — Citizens should eat less, and fish and poultry and less meat. Bingham County extension agent says senior citizens should include smaller amounts of dairy fat, more

"It's not revolutionary in terms of technology," said Rosenthal. He said the meat analyzer works on a principle similar to a grain analyzer, which measures moisture content.

"It measures light reflectance that the eye can't see," Norris said. He said the color of ground beef can be confusing.

"Some cuts are redder than others. High fat content in very red meat won't look as fatty as a sample with low fat content and light-colored meat," he said.

Until now, there's been no easy way of measuring the fat content of ground meat, as many a consumer learned when a lean-looking batch rendered out large amounts of fat in the frying pan.

The law now puts a 30 per cent ceiling on the amount of fat ground beef can contain, and some supermarkets use a chemical test to guide butchers.

Mink industry expands

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After years of decline—which ranchers blamed partly on price-depressing imports—the nation's mink industry appears to be expanding modestly in 1973.

The Agriculture Department says Wisconsin, Utah and Minnesota—the nation's three largest mink producing states—led the turnaround as prices this year increased 60 per cent per pelt after low years in 1970 and 1971.

A departmental survey shows ranchers have bred 901,000 females to produce kits—baby mink—this year. That figure is up 5 per cent from 1972 and represents the first upturn since the department began keeping statistics in 1969.

The upturn was due to a substantial improvement in prices, which had been relatively low for several years. It came on the heels of a sharp decline in imports, which ranchers claimed had plagued them for several years.

Commerce Department records show imports dropped from 3.5 million pelts in 1969 to 2.6 million in 1972. During the same period, the price of pelts dropped from $13.20 in 1969, to $9.50 in 1971. The price rose to $14.40 apiece last year and mink pelts brought $15 each in the first quarter of this year.

During the drastic price decline, the number of ranches and production in the United States tumbled by about 50 per cent. The number of ranches slid from 2,794 in 1969 to 1,479 in 1972. The number of pelts produced dropped from 5.7 million in 1969 to slightly less than 3 million last year.

The department report shows

Wisconsin still the nation's leading mink ranching state, with 322 ranches in 1972, a decline of 12 per cent from 1971. Utah ranked second with 225 ranches, down from 261 in 1971. And Minnesota remained third with 162 ranches last year compared with 193 the year before.

In breeding, Minnesota was out in front with a 9 per cent increase in 1973. Utah was second, up 6 per cent. And Wisconsin's production was up 5 per cent.

Wage-price freeze sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon Tuesday sought advice from his Cabinet on ways to curb inflation and Senate Democrats threatened to adopt a 90-day wage-price freeze if the administration fails to act.

The White House and congressional action came as the government reported that the wholesale price index rose 2.1 per cent in May, led by huge increase in farm prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) said farm prices increased a record 30 per cent over the past year.

Several congressmen and AFL-CIO President George Meany cited the report as proof that Nixon's Phase III voluntary-prices controls are not working.

"The President considers inflation the No. 1 problem in the country," acting White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren told newsmen following a meeting between Nixon and his Cabinet. He said the President asked Cabinet members to submit their anti-inflation proposals as soon as possible. Warren's statement increased speculation that Nixon soon will initiate a new program to control rapidly increasing prices. Administration officials hinted that an announcement could be expected sometime next week.

Although some senators noted that President Nixon could act more quickly than Congress, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said an amendment may be attached to a pending farm bill to impose a 90-day freeze on wages and prices.

"Something's got to be done," Mansfield said. "The economy is getting out of hand. We may put a wage-price control amendment on the farm bill later this week."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said he would sponsor the amendment, but he added: "I urge the President to take the issue away from us. The President could put a freeze into effect today. Congress cannot. We need that action now."

Indicating the amendment would get support on both sides of the aisle, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said, the Senate "must get decisively to check rampant inflation and, unless I am misreading the mood of my colleagues, it will do so in short order."

In the House, Democratic leaders proposed limiting federal spending in fiscal 1974 which begins July 1 — to $207.1 billion — or $1.6 billion less than Nixon requested. Speaker Carl Albert told a news conference the ceiling was included in a new bill aimed at limiting presidential impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress.

Agnew drawn into illicit funding

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Maryland's Republican chairman conceded today that a list of contributors to a 1972 fund raising event for Vice President Spiro Agnew was falsified to hide a $50,000 loan from the Finance Committee to Re-elect the President.

Alexander M. Lankler confirmed testimony given Wednesday to Senate investigators by Hugh W. Sloan, Jr., former Nixon re-election treasurer. Sloan said the cash was given to Lankler before the federal election law requiring campaign disclosures took effect April 7, 1972.

"It was used for cosmetic purposes," Lankler said, "for making the event appear to be even that much more successful."

He said the money was transferred to the committee running the "Salute to Ted Agnew" in Baltimore on May 25, 1972.

"It was reported originally as having been contributions of other people," Lankler said.

An effort was made to delete the names when the Agnew committee decided to report the transfer," he said.

The new report omitted the names of 32 persons previously listed as contributors of $500-$2,500 worth of tickets for the star-studded gala, where Frank Sinatra left retirement to sing for Agnew, his close friend.

A survey of persons whose names were used by the salure committee to explain $49,900 of the money showed they were unaware of being listed as contributors.

US House bars overseas wars

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By a 30-1 vote, the House Foreign Affairs Committee approved today a resolution to bar the President from committing the United States to any overseas wars without authority of Congress.

The measure is similar to legislation already approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It appears certain that a war powers bill of some kind — aimed by Congress at reclaiming its powers over commitment of U.S. troops — will emerge in this session. There is a strong possibility that President Nixon will veto it.

The House resolution would bar a President from sending GIs into combat abroad without the express approval of Congress except in very limited emergency circumstances.

The President would be required to withdraw any troops he had committed if Congress failed to give him specific authority to use them within 120 days.

Unlike the Senate version, the House proposal applies to Indochina. If the United States were involved there — or any other foreign conflict — at the time the resolution was enacted, the President would have 120 days to gain congressional approval for the action or he would be forced to disengage.

CANYON PLANNING UNIT

BLM land plans heard

TWIN FALLS — Bureau of Land Management final proposals for management of public lands in Twin Falls County were made Thursday night.

At a public meeting at the College of Southern Idaho, Sheridan Hansen, Burley district manager, made the recommendations for the Twin Falls Planning Unit which takes in public lands in the county south of Salmon Falls Creek, to an audience of about 60 persons.

The public is invited to respond to the recommendations; Hansen said, as decisions on them will be made after June 25. Comments may be sent to the district manager, Bureau of Land Management, P.O. Box 489, Burley.

Major recommendations made by the bureau were:

- that a portion of Salmon Falls land from Salmon Dam downstream to Balanced Rock be established as a natural area with no road development in order to preserve its present state.
- lands along the Snake River be retained in federal ownership until local or state government is in a position to develop recreation potential or until trades can be made for lands with higher public value.
- that land be acquired at the mouth of Rock Creek, at the Perrine Bridge site and at Murtough Lake.
- an application to the Idaho State Parks Department for development of the Buhl Dunes recreation area as a state park be approved:

- a rest area be established at Rabbit Springs on US Highway 93 north of Jackpot, Nev., through cooperation with the Idaho Highway Department.
- an area at the Rabbit Springs site be established as a public rock collecting area.
- a recreation plan providing for five sites be developed for Salmon Falls reservoir.
- small tracts of land previously slated for disposal be reclassified and retained for wildlife values.
- a system of cross-country trails be established for the use of off-road vehicles, horses and hikers.
- boundaries of public lands be posted to identify them as open for public use.
- a road sign program be developed to aid the public in using natural resource lands.
- power lines constructed in the future be kept in the same location as present lines.
- Highway 93 be kept at its present location.
- the part of Twin Falls County east of Salmon Falls Creek, presently administered from the BLM Boise office, be included in the Burley district.
- areas with big game and upland game wildlife values be considered for habitat improvement in all future development.

BLM uses of two-county canyon area discussed

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

JEROME — Area government officials met here Thursday night to discuss Bureau of Land Management uses of a Canyon Planning Unit in Jerome and Gooding counties.

Approximately 35,000 acres (11 per cent) of the unit are national resource lands controlled by the BLM. The entire area is located north of the Snake River from Milner Dam to Bilsa.

The BLM Thursday asked for local government solutions to conflicting resources uses in the planning area.

A hearing will be held next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Jerome Junior High School to take public testimony on the same problems.

The areas of conflict include:

1. A large tract of BLM land between the Snake River and Interstate 80 in the vicinity of Perrine Bridge and the I-80 — Highway 93 intersection.

Commercial, residential, light industrial and regional airport uses have been proposed for the area. However these uses would adversely affect recreation, mineral sources (sand and gravel), forage production and wildlife.

Comments at the meeting generally favored the concentration of business and residential developments within a "green belt."

2. Several small tracts of BLM land isolated within large agricultural lands near the intersection of Highways 25 and 93.

The natural resource lands provide cover for pheasants during the winter when agricultural lands have been cleared of all suitable cover. But the tracts are also valuable as agricultural land and could be used to add to the economic base of the region.

Suggestions were wide ranging. Preservation of the lands for wildlife use was encouraged since additional crop lands are not needed at this time. Careful pest and weed control on the lands was also encouraged to prevent infestation of neighboring farms.

Howard Johnson, chief engineer of the state highway district, said his department needed the BLM lands for road building materials (sand and gravel).

3. Small tracts of BLM land north of the Snake River and immediately west of the Gooding-Jerome County line.

The lands are suitable for agricultural use but are susceptible to wind erosion and could turn into moving sand dunes that might spread to adjacent farmlands.

One person said the area should be converted to agricultural uses. Johnson said the highway district also has road material sources in the area that should be retained.

4. The area between the Snake River and Interstate 80 near Highway 93.

Livestock projects (fences, etc.) needed to improve forage production will restrict and limit present off-road vehicle uses.

Hynes suggested that designated motorcycle trails be set up in conjunction with fencing projects. The motorcycles would then be restricted to the trails.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar read a letter to the BLM officials encouraging careful use of the lands in waste disposal.

He said the Snake River Aquifer beneath the lands supplies culinary water to many individuals and municipalities, including Twin Falls, and should not be contaminated with sewage.

Hunting is among the major recreational uses of the area. But the use of firearms could endanger public safety.

Restricting and controlling firearms in the area were encouraged. Fish and Game Department official said ball ammunition should be banned on the land. "Something must be done. It is dangerous now and is becoming more dangerous," he said.

5. The Box Canyon area.

The canyon is currently being studied for national monument designation by the National Park Service, but recent disturbances of the canyon tributary have occurred on private land. Private developers have diverted the water for fish farms and have destroyed some of the scenic and pristine nature of the canyon, according to a BLM evaluation.

Forrest Hynes, a member of the Jerome County Planning Commission, urged preservation of Box Canyon with "a high recreation priority."

John LeMoine, Gooding County commissioner, said the BLM's hands are tied in Box Canyon since much of it is private property. "I don't know what you'd gain by keeping it if it's watered down by the private developers," he said.

6. The Snake River canyon rim and Interstate 80 corridor.

Excavation of scarce and valuable sand and gravel deposits will disturb open space recreational values. It may also deplete high-value lands for residential, commercial, light industry and airport purposes.

Comments generally favored preservation of the canyon rim as public land and a "green belt" corridor.

7. Lakes and waterways north of Eden and Hazelton.

Livestock grazing around major water bodies and waterways disturbs and removes vegetation for waterfowl.

The Fish and Game official suggested erecting fences around waterways with designated "water corridors" provided for livestock. Hynes said the areas should "definitely" be multiple use areas.

8. The area between the Snake River and Interstate 80 near Highway 93.

Livestock projects (fences, etc.) needed to improve forage production will restrict and limit present off-road vehicle uses.

Hynes suggested that designated motorcycle trails be set up in conjunction with fencing projects. The motorcycles would then be restricted to the trails.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar read a letter to the BLM officials encouraging careful use of the lands in waste disposal.

He said the Snake River Aquifer beneath the lands supplies culinary water to many individuals and municipalities, including Twin Falls, and should not be contaminated with sewage.

Blaine conducts special meet

By TERRY CAMPBELL

Times-News writer

HAILEY — The Blaine County school board convened a special meeting Thursday evening without the seating of newly appointed board member Dr. Art Richards.

After the meeting, trustee chairman Ronda Hunt said that Dr. Richards had not been sworn into office during the May 14 meeting, but that he will be sworn in during the board's annual meeting Monday night.

Dr. Richard's appointment was announced and he attended the May 14 meeting.

During action Thursday night, the board:

- Conducted an initial 30 minute executive session.
- Named Susan McCoy as acting clerk of the board.
- Reinstated Mrs. Kenneth Worthington in her present position on the special education staff for the coming school year.

— Hired Mrs. Leona Wright, Bellevue elementary art teacher, on a part-time basis.

— Declared Feb. 8 and 9, 1973, as official closure days at the Ernest Hemingway Elementary School because of failure of the sewer system.

— Tabbed for review principal recommended applications for open teaching positions at the Bellevue Elementary School, Wood River Junior High and Wood River High School.

After the departure of trustee Mrs. Jane Kneeland and the lack of a quorum, the board discussed:

— possible leasing of the Del Panting garage, Hailey, for a maintenance garage and the hiring of a district mechanic as a cost saving measure. Acting Superintendent Ray Jefferson said he would request Panting to draw up a proposed lease to be presented to the board for their consideration.

— a request by board clerk Jo Bowman to be placed on a part-time, hourly basis for payroll work.

Jefferson said he "strongly" recommended the move to the board and the change would involve about an average of two hours a day work for Mrs. Bowman instead of her present full time employment.

The acting superintendent also recommended that the board consider hiring a secretary for filing work and taking meeting minutes with the money saved from Mrs. Bowman's budgeted salary as well as the money saved by not hiring student personnel.

The flags will fly in the order as admitted into the union, beginning with Delaware and ending with Hawaii.

Fire destroys home

BUHL — The rural home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Amaro was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon.

Four poodles in the house were killed and nothing was saved except the clothing the family was wearing.

According to Prime Gabardi, Buhl Volunteer Fire Department, the Amaro's son, Lionel, 14, was home cooking dinner about 5 p.m. when grease in the deep fry caught fire.

He telephone his parents who own and operate Amaro Jewelry store in Buhl. No estimate of the loss had been made, but Amaro said the house burned to the ground.

It was located about two miles north of Buhl on the Clear Lakes Road.

Damage suit filed

BOISE (UPI) — A Buhl woman and her infant daughter have brought a $750,000 damage suit in federal court against a Montana packing company and a truck driver.

Paula Jean Johnston, acting for herself and on behalf of her daughter, Kerrie, 1½ years old, brought suit against Pierco Packing Co., a Montana corporation, and its driver, Thomas C. White.

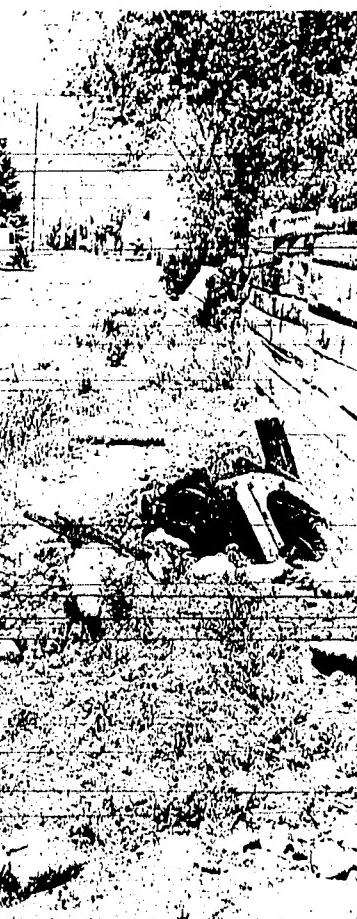

She alleges a truck driven by White pulled from a parking lane on the freeway three miles south of Pocatello into the path of another truck driven by her husband, Ronald Rex Johnston, who was killed in the accident last October.

The trip will include the Bonneville Flood sites between Burley and Twin Falls. Tour leader will be R. H. Seymour, manager of Milner Dam for many years.

Blaine project

Blaine junk war declared

KETCHUM — The city of Ketchum, Ketchum Police Department and the Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce have declared war on junk, abandoned cars and accumulations of miscellaneous trash.

With the snow off the ground and the winter's legacy of "treasures" clearly visible, June has been set as "clean-up month" in Ketchum, according to chamber manager Lloyd Curtis.

Curtis said residents are requested to scour their yards, adjacent streets and alleys and to stack their findings in their front yards by June 18. Volunteer crews will then haul it to the dump.

Residents with surplus junk cars and heavy items may arrange removal by calling Police Chief Dennis Haynes at 726-0333.

Curtis said the project is designed to promote pride in Ketchum and to spruce up the city for both residents and visitors.

TF submits 'concept' for city-county planning

By DAVID HORSMAN

Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The City of Twin Falls has submitted a brief "concept" for joint city-county planning to the Twin Falls County commissioners.

The three page document was drafted by City Manager Jean Milar and approved by the City Council after the county commissioners last week requested written suggestions for county-wide planning. The deadline for written proposals is Monday.

The city's "Concept of City-County Comprehensive Planning" calls for organizing a committee of six elected officials including one county commissioner appointed by that body, one highway district board member appointed by all county highway districts, one city mayor or councilman appointed by all cities in the county except Twin Falls, one school or college district board member appointed by all county school and college districts, and two Twin Falls City councilmen appointed would be paid $15,000, with $10,000 allotted for assistants, $4,000 for clerical help, $3,500 for transportation and an office and $2,500 for publication, printing and supply costs.

"These funds could be derived from revenue sharing for the first year of operations. The continuing planning program could be funded in subsequent years by ad valorem taxes. Federal grants, if available, could supplement the local funds."

The budget costs would be shared by participating units of government, according to the following percentage rates: county, 30 per cent ($10,500); Twin Falls City, 30 per cent ($10,500); highway districts, 15 per cent ($5,250); school districts, 15 per cent ($5,250), and the remaining cities in the county, 10 per cent ($3,500).

The highway and school districts and small cities could proportionate their respective shares in ratio of their individual assessed valuations to the total of their respective assessed valuations."

"Constant flow of planning products" is essential, the proposal states, and must include: "The outline of goals and objectives as pertain to the planning elements.

"A time table of accomplishment of projected activities.

"A financial plan to realistically accomplish projected programs.

"Criteria for program implementation.

"Recommendations for capital improvement programs.

"Coordination procedures between planning, zoning and code enforcement."

The city also suggests that the planner report in detail concerning the following county-wide elements: history, economy, natural resources, all community facilities and services, utilities, transportation, government, historical preservation, beautification and noise and ecology.

County Commission Chairman William Chance said Thursday the county will not comment on the Twin Falls City proposal until all interested individuals and groups have had the opportunity to submit similar suggestions.

Idaho becomes member of Pacific Coast association

STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — The Pacific Coast Athletic Association Thursday accepted University of Idaho and Cal State Fullerton as members effective July 1, 1974.

The approval was made at the PCAA's spring council meeting here and their admission is subject to termination of Idaho's membership in the Big-Sky Conference and Fullerton's membership in the California Collegiate Athletic Association.

The terminations are expected to be mere formalities.

Idaho and Fullerton also must meet all provisions of the PCAA constitution and bylaws, according to a joint announcement by conference president Dr. Edward Betz and PCAA commissioner Jess Hill.

Thursday's action will give the PCAA seven schools again.

UC Santa Barbara and Cal State Los Angeles must leave

ROSEWORTH TROLLING has been pretty good of late, evidenced by this string of rainbow taken Thursday afternoon by Arlie Jones and grandson Jerry Hammon. The two reported good action with a lot of strikes that didn't reach fruition. Jones put the catch rate at two per head.

Finley tires of losing money, sells ABA holdings

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Self-made millionaire Charles O. Finley said Thursday he can't afford to lose $550,000 a year and is selling the hapless Memphis Tams of the American Basketball Association

(ABA) to a Providence, R.I., group.

"I just decided to get out of basketball," said the colorful and controversial sportsman from his Chicago office. He also owns the world baseball champion Oakland Athletics and a pro hockey franchise.

"In my first year, I lost approximately $550,000 and I just can't afford to lose that kind of money. I gave Memphis the benefit of the doubt and I was not very pleased with the results."

The team, which will be moved to Providence and may become a regional New England franchise if the deal is approved by ABA owners, finished last season with a dismal 24-60 record before a sprinkling of home fans.

The whole deal is contingent on moving to Providence," said Providence paving contractor Paul Lynch, one of 20 businessmen who put up a reported $1.8 million for the purchase.

"If we can't move," Lynch added, "The deal is off."

League Commissioner Robert Carlson said in New York that the contract had been submitted to him for approval and that he would set up a telephone conference call with ABA owners next week to get their opinions.

The Memphis franchise has been here for three years after moving from New Orleans. The first two were as the Memphis Pros under a local stock deal and the last as the Tams (renamed by Finley).

Tams' coach Bob Bass said he was surprised by the move and did not have any immediate plans. He said he was considering at least one offer but definitely will not go to Providence.

Adolph Rupp, who coached the University of Kentucky 43 years before he was brought here as Tams' president by Finley last year, would not reveal his immediate plans from Lexington, Ky.

I have known about this for more than a week," Rupp said.

Lynch said he realized he was getting a losing franchise. But he added that he planned to build a winner around the core of guard Johnny Neumann, center Randy Denton and forward Wilbert Jones.

"Thus we are going to get two players from the New York Nets in compensation for Larry Kenon," said Lynch.

Kenon, who led Memphis State University to the finals of the NCAA tournament against UCLA this year, was drafted by the Tams but signed with the Nets.

"I'm looking forward to changing New England from minor to major league," said Lynch.

New York pays $100,000 for McDowell, swaps for Dobson

NEW YORK (UPI) — Southpaw Sam McDowell, one-time fireballer and 13th on the all-time strikeout list, was purchased by the New York Yankees from the San Francisco Giants Thursday for an estimated $100,000.

It was the second deal for a pitcher made by the Yankees in the same day.

Earlier they obtained right-hander Pat Dobson from the Atlanta Braves for minor leaguers Frank Tedesco and Wayne Nordhagen plus two players to be named later.

Dobson went from the Yanks' Syracuse farm to the Braves while Nordhagen went from Syracuse to the Braves'

Richmond affiliate.

The 30-year-old McDowell, who originally received $75,000 to sign with the Cleveland Indians in 1960, spent 10 seasons with them before being traded to the Giants for Gaylord Perry and shortstop Frank Duffy on Nov. 29, 1971.

He led the American League with 325 strikeouts in 1965 and with 226 one year later, equaling a league record in the process, then also led the AL in the same department again in 1968, with 283, in 1969, with 279, and in 1970, with 304.

McDowell's 2,201 strikeouts in the majors is more than the number compiled by any Yankee pitcher past or present.

Whitey Ford was high man for the club with his 3,956.

With the Giants this season, McDowell had a 4-12 record, starting only three of the 18 games he participated in. He was 10-8 with the Giants last year and has a lifetime record of 142 victories and 117 defeats to go with his 3.09 earned run average.

A 30-year-old resident of Monroeville, Pa., McDowell had a major league record by pitching two consecutive one-hit games on April 25 and May 1, 1966, and in coming back to the Yankees now, he again goes to work for administrative partner Gabe Paul, whom he pitched for with Cleveland.

McDowell's 2,201 strikeouts in the majors is more than the number compiled by any Yankee pitcher past or present.

Secretariat's $6 million syndication not complete yet

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Tweedy, manager of the Meadow Stable, revealed Thursday that Secretariat, the potential Triple Crown winner, still was her property and will not pass over to the syndicate of breeders who agreed to pay $6,000,000 for the horse until his racing days are over.

"Under the terms of the contract we agreed to deliver Secretariat to Claiborne Farm in Kentucky on Nov. 15. About a month after that he will be given a fertility test. If Secretariat passes that, title then will pass over to the syndicate," Mrs. Tweedy said.

"Until then he is our property and everything he earns goes into our account. We are very grateful to the syndicate members for these conditions and for their willingness in allowing Secretariat to race as a 3-year-old."

"You know, there was some thought about retiring him after two. He is a son of Bold Ruler and they say that Bold Ruler are precocious, they are at their best at two. The syndicate agreed to risk his reputation at 3. We, and they, are glad we did now," she said.

When Christopher T. Cheney, her father, died early this year, the syndicate became necessary to raise money to pay the inheritance tax.

"Secretariat was entered in the estate for $6 million," she said, adding:

"We have him insured for that amount and naturally the insurance is costly. We have insured him for life, for breeding and for fertility," she said.

Lou O'Neill of the Long Island (N.Y.) Press, an aging sports writer, then asked how much fertility insurance costs.

"There is an age limit on that," Mrs. Tweedy gently reminded him.

Mrs. Tweedy said she had gained legal control over Secretariat but said she had a moral obligation to the syndicate members.

"We are super careful in how we handle him. We would do things with Riva Ridge (her 1972 Kentucky Derby and Belmont Stakes winner) we would hesitate to do with Secretariat. Like entering him in a race we are not absolute sure he is ready for. That's why I hesitate to say whether or not we will race him on the grass."

The Nov. 15 date was selected with the Washington, D.C. International in mind. As you know that is a grass race. And we would like him to win a million dollars. The general public doesn't accept a horse on his merits alone. But they do understand figures and statistics. That's why we would like to win a million and to have Secretariat credited with all his track records," she said.

Because the syndicate gave concessions the price of each share (there were 32 of them) was dropped from $200,000 to $100,000.

I am sure we could sell them for more now but I am satisfied with the way things are. The millionaire club is a small one but the Triple Crown club is even smaller. That is the one we really would like him to join," Mrs. Tweedy said.

Grandmother-backed golfer takes Philadelphia lead

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Young Jim Barber, his struggling new career financially aided by a 70-year-old grandmother who doesn't understand golf, shot a seven-under-par 63 Thursday to grab the first round lead of the $150,000 TVB Philadelphia Golf Classic by one stroke.

The 24-year-old sophomore on the pro tour had an eagle three on the fifth hole and five birdies, three of them on the last three holes—no take the slim lead over Mike Reeson after completion of the first day's play of the 72-hole event at Whitemarsh Valley Country Club.

Tied for third at 68 were Tom Jenkins, Miller Barber, no relation to the leader, Ross Randall, Forrest Fezler and Dave Hill.

Those at 69 included Bert Yancey, George Knudson, another unrelated Barber named David, Richard Crawford, Butch Baird, Charlie Sifford, Dave Stockton and Ralph Schlicht.

Jack Nicklaus, who changed his long-standing rule about not playing before a major event, tuned up for next week's U.S. open with a one-over par 73, the same as Lee Trevino.

Defending champion J. C. Snead, runner-up in this year's Masters, had an even-par 72, while Bruce Crampton, second in the money winnings this year behind Nicklaus, had a 71.

"I came here to get in some practice on northern courses," Nicklaus said, "and I got a lot of practice in bunkers; chipping and rough."

The early play over the 6,708-yard course featured a hole in one by Floyd Hughes on the 17th, par-three 12th hole. Hughes, the first player of the day to hit to that green, used a seven-iron.

Jim Barber, who has won only $6,887 since joining the tour last year, was asked how he has managed to survive.

"I've got a grandmother who is one of my sponsors, along with my father and uncle," Barber said. "She's got most of the money."

"And everytime I come home, she can't understand why I don't win every time," said Barber, who once had ambitions to become a major league baseball player and worked out while a teenager with the Philadelphia Phillies, who train in his hometown of Clearwater, Fla.

A shoulder injury during his high school football days finished Barber's baseball aspirations and he turned to golf with the aid of his grandmother.

Does his grandmother play golf?

"No, she doesn't know anything about the game," he said.

Barber got his eagle with a drive and a three-iron on the green of the 475-yard hole to within two feet of the cup and sank the putt.

His birdies came on the 10th, 11th, and 16th, 17th and 18th holes, dropping in puts ranging from four to 20 feet.

Rexor, a five-year tour veteran from Seattle, Wash., started the day with four birdies on his bogey-free front nine but then bogeyed the 10th, birdied the 11th and 12th, lost another stroke to par on the 13th and finished with birdies on the 17th and 18th.

He described driving as usually the best part of his game and putting the worst—but said it was reversed here.

Downing, a native of Indianapolis where the Pacers play their home games, said he chose the Celtics because he "got caught up in the atmosphere of the team. I came here to watch a Celtics-Knicks playoff game (just after he was drafted). The fans were really with them. It was so much more exciting than an ABA game."

Senators seek fish mitigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Idaho's senators asked the Senate appropriations committee Thursday for a half million dollars for fish and wildlife mitigation plans at lower Teton dam in eastern Idaho.

In a joint letter to Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the senate appropriations subcommittee on public works, Sens. Frank Church and James McClure said the Interior Department approved plans for fish and wildlife mitigation activities at lower Teton.

Implementation of the plan will require an appropriation of an additional $500,000 for the Bureau of Reclamation, Church and McClure said. "So what he said doesn't involve anyone now."

Celtics sign No. 1 pick to long pact

BOSTON (UPI) — The Boston Celtics signed Indiana center Steve Downing, the team's top draft choice, to a multi-year contract Thursday.

Celtic General Manager Red Auerbach, speaking at a news conference attended by Downing and his wife, said the 6-foot-8 Hoosier will be spotted next season as both a center and forward.

"I feel he is a Gowens type ball player," said Auerbach referring to Celtic center Dave Cowens, the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player last season. "He can play inside and outside. He's a better-than-average outside shooter and he can go to the hoop."

Downing, who also was drafted by his hometown team—the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association—averaged 16.1 points and 11.7 rebounds per game during his three varsity years. Last season, he averaged 20.1 points and 10.6 rebounds a game and was named the Most Valuable Player in the Big 10. In the NCAA tournament semifinal game, Downing scored 44 points against UCLA as Indiana gave the champion Bruins fits before succumbing.

Downing, a native of Indianapolis where the Pacers play their home games, said he chose the Celtics because he "got caught up in the atmosphere of the team. I came here to watch a Celtics-Knicks playoff game (just after he was drafted). The fans were really with them. It was so much more exciting than an ABA game."

Russell fired for headline, Red says

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Celtics general manager Red Auerbach Thursday charged Bill Russell's remarks about racist sportswriters in Boston made to attract attention.

Russell, who led the Celtics to 10 championships in 13 seasons as a player and player-coach, Tuesday called Boston "probably the most rigidly segregated city in the country" and said "all" (the sportswriters) could do was complain about all the black guys" on the team after Boston had won the NBA title one year.

Auerbach, speaking at a news conference to announce the signing of top draft pick Steve Downing of Indiana, said "Russell is going into a new job" as coach and general manager of the Seattle SuperSonics. "He wanted to attract attention about something that happened 18 years ago."

"There's only one writer around now who was here then, and Russ likes him," Auerbach said. "So what he said doesn't involve anyone now."

Secretariat can complete triple crown on Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretariat, who smashed the Churchill Downs track record in winning the Kentucky Derby and may have done so at Pimlico in winning the Preakness, was poised today to shatter the track standard at Belmont Park if that's what it takes to win the Belmont Stakes and sweep the Triple Crown.

"If the track is fast, the pace is right and he has to do it to win, I think he can break the record," trainer Lucien Laurin said.

At Churchill Downs Secretariat, calling upon all his muscle and might with a tremendous stretch run, completed the 1 1/4 miles in 1:59.25, shattering the two minute record set by Northern Dancer in 1964.

At Pimlico the issue was not as clean-cut. Secretariat was timed in 1:55 for the 1 3/16 miles by the automatic electric timer but private clockers timed him in 1:53 2/5, three-fifths of a second faster than Cannonero's record of 1:54 set two years ago. The track clocker caught Secretariat in 1:54 2/5 and that now stands as the official time. The colt won without Jockey Ron Turcotte without hitting him with the whip.

The possibility of a record in Saturday's Belmont Stakes arose when trainer Frank "Pancho" Martin decided to enter the speedy Knightly Dawn as well as Sham, his colt that was second in the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness.

Martin has not lost faith in Sham.

"I am just as confident now as I was before the Derby that Sham can beat Secretariat," he insisted.

"There was no speed in the race and that's why I put Knightly Dawn in to get a fast pace. I still might change my mind and take Knightly Dawn out. This is a last minute decision business," he said.

Pet Struble, My Gallant and Twice A Prince, complete the field for the 1 1/4 mile Belmont Stakes and the mark they are shooting at is 2:20 3/5 set by Jered Bold Nero as well as Gallant Man in 1957. Stage Door Johnny, the 1968 Belmont winner, came closest to the mark with a 2:37 1/5 clocking.

Laurin is well aware of Martin's plan to use Knightly Dawn as a "rabbit" and feels Secretariat may profit more by it than Sham.

"You don't think I am going to fall into that trap, do you?" he asked. "Secretariat can be rated. He has been rated. You just leave him alone. He can gallop behind the field for three-quarters of a mile as long as you don't pick him up. Ronnie (Turcotte) knows this horse and he's a hell of a horse. That's all I can say. He'll break the record if he has to," the trainer added again.

That Secretariat could be beaten seems to be beyond Laurin's understanding.

"Everybody makes such a fuss over this horse. If he gets beat I'll be like a groundhog, crawl into a hole somewhere and hide," he said.

The Belmont record was set through the use of a "rabbit" and at the expense of Bold Ruler, the sire of Secretariat. Trainer Johnny Narud en-

Everything's familiar in NCAA tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — It was something like old home week as the top college baseball clubs in the land prepared to square off today for the national championship in the College World Series.

Most of the teams entered in the annual double-elimination tournament were no strangers to the Omaha event.

Among old rivals coming back for another shot at the crown—defending-national champion Southern California, always-tough Arizona State, Texas, Oklahoma and Minnesota.

Other entries included Harvard, Georgia Southern and Penn State.

Oklahoma (47-10) was to tangle with Minnesota (29-14-2) in the opener this afternoon, with Penn State (19-5) going against tourney favorite Arizona State (56-6) in the nightcap. Saturday's schedule has Texas against Georgia Southern and Southern Cal facing Harvard.

In the opening clash, Oklahoma had three unbeaten pitchers the Sooners could go with. Heading the list was Stan Meek (7-0), followed by Bob Shirley and Mickey Lashley, each at 6-0.

Minnesota had Dave Winfield (8-1), who also has a .374 batting average, and is backed up by Ken Herbst (6-0). Kenny King is the leading slugger for Oklahoma, with an average equal to that of Winfield.

Clay Westlake and Dennis Kendrick headed the Arizona State Sun Devils' hitting with averages of .309 and .302. Dennis Dewitt of Penn State is .302 on the season, while teammate Greg Vogel is .311. Pitcher Doug Slocum has gone 18-0 on the year for Arizona State, while Jim Otten and Eddie Bane each have 14-1 records. The top hurler for Penn is Mitch Likeleleis at 7-1.

Going into the tourney, Arizona State and Southern Cal appeared to be the teams to beat. In last year's series, Arizona State defeated Southern Cal in the opening encounter, only to lose two straight to them—and the series crown—later in the outing.

This year, Arizona State defeated Southern Cal three times, then lost to the Trojans in the Riverside (Calif.) tournament.

The series schedule: Friday—Oklahoma v. Minnesota; Penn State v. Arizona State; Saturday—Texas v. Georgia Southern; Southern California v. Harvard.

Sunday race nixed

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Gov. Otis Bowen gave a strong push Thursday to a church-based campaign against running the Indianapolis 500-mile race on Sunday.

Bowen stressed that he was speaking "as a person and not as governor." But the fact that the governor spoke out against the Indianapolis Motor Speedway management's decision to hold the 1974 race on Sunday, May 26, could force a reconsideration.

When asked for his opinion on the decision by Speedway officials and owner Tony Hulman to hold the race next year on Sunday for the first time, Bowen said, "I have no authority to say they cannot have it then. I have received many letters of complaint. I am not for a Sunday race either."

Ferrari out to end long loss skein

LEMANS, France (UPI) — Ferrari, out to end an eight-year losing streak, will start from the pole position Saturday in the 50th anniversary race of the LeMans 24-hour endurance classic.

Three of the red Italian 312 P-3 machines will be up against four French Matras, bidding for their second consecutive sweep, and two British Miracons, which all proved marginally slower than the Ferraris after two days of qualifying sessions.

Brazil's Carlos Pace and Italian Arturo Merzario set the fastest time for a 8.4-mile circuit, unofficially setting a new lap record by more than eight seconds in 3 minutes 37.5 seconds—an average speed of 140.2 mph.

Alongside on the front row on the Indianapolis-style rolling grid when the race starts at 11 a.m. EDT Saturday will be a second Ferrari with Belgian Jacky Ickx or Briton Brian Redman at the wheel, after a 3:35.5 practice time.

Green insulted by Sonie offer

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) —

The attorney for former Louisville Tech star Mike Green said Thursday that a contract proposal by the Seattle SuperSonics for the 6-foot-10 — player — was unacceptable.

Norman Blass, a New York City lawyer, said the offer was made by Bill Russell, the Sonics' new general manager and coach, and it "contained only 25 per cent of the amount of money paid Ernie DiGregorio by Buffalo."

"If Russell is going to set on his offer, I can assure you Mike Green will not sign," Blass told the Seattle Times.

The attorney said that, if

Russell did not have any confidence in his club's No. 1 draft choice, the Sonics should trade him.

Green was also drafted by

Indiana of the American

Basketball Association.

Holzman adds new NY title

NEW YORK (UPI) — William "Red" Holzman, coach of the world champion New York Knicks, has been elected vice-president to his other positions of head coach and general manager.

The 52-year-old Holzman, who coached the Knicks to their second world championship in four years this past season, has been the club's head coach for 5½ seasons and has a lifetime won-loss record of 299-168.

If the children are going barefoot at playtime in the yard—make sure the grass doesn't hide things that might hurt their feet: sharp objects, pieces of glass, rusty nails,

the Sonics should

Olympians Wottle, Milburn breeze past qualifying in NCAA track first round

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Olympic gold medal winners

Dave Wottle and Rod Milburn easily moved out of the qualifying rounds in the mile run and 120-yard hurdles Thursday night in the rain-delayed opening round of the 52nd NCAA track and field University Thursday afternoon.

Wottle, running in the first

Both Wottle and Cummings easily would have bettered the

Alpine skiing group drops age limits

SUN VALLEY (UPI) — The Alpine Competition Committee (ACC) meeting during the United States Ski Association (USSA) convention Thursday dropping the age limit requirement of 21 for ski racers on the U.S. talent squad.

The change is one of four major decisions made during the meeting. Previously, the age limit for both men and women was 21. The ACC had discussed lowering the age to 19 before making the decision to drop the limit altogether.

Another major change in the talent squad — which is composed of the best racers out of each division in the country and from which the national B team is selected — is that national coaches will no longer make selections.

All squad members will be named from a national point list and the International Ski Federation.

Before, national coaches named five squad members.

In addition, the ACC voted to have members of the squad automatically entered in all international point races, except the World Cup. Previously, all members of the A and B teams were automatically entered. Two years ago, talent squad members were left up to individual USSA divisions.

The fourth action taken Thursday was that if an automatic entry is sick or injured, the division he or she represents can make a substitution for that spot.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks opened higher Friday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Shortly after the opening bell, the Dow Jones industrial average had risen .68 to 910.30. Winners were more than two-to-one ahead of losers.

In Thursday's session, the market staged a late rally, apparently reflecting hopes that May's wholesale price figures, showing a rise of 4.7 per cent, would compel President Nixon to act promptly against inflation. The Dow rose 11.44 to 909.62.

By all accounts, Thursday's advance was surprising to many analysts. If come, they said, despite word from the White House that no announcement on the economy was immediately forthcoming.

Many investors had expected something more concrete from an emergency cabinet meeting held Thursday morning.

In addition, the market barely noticed a prime lending rate rise of .4-point by many of the nation's leading banks. The rate charged these banks' most creditworthy customers now is 7.2 per cent.

Summer day camp classes scheduled Monday at 'Y'

TWIN FALLS — Summer day camp classes will begin Monday at the YM-YWCA with the first sessions at 10 a.m.

The first session will cover a five-day period and will feature such programs as arts and crafts, swimming, archery, games and an all-day outing.

Another session will begin June 18. The day camp program is designed for youngsters in the first through sixth grades and offers an opportunity for youngsters to experience group living while learning a number of different skills.

On Tuesday at 7 p.m., the "Y" will begin a class to help youngsters from the fourth through ninth grades in learning to play table tennis or improving their game. The Tuesday and Thursday evening classes will be for a limited enrollment and those planning to participate are urged to make reservations as soon as possible.

Another "Y" program will begin June 14 and will feature an organizational meeting for the start of a bicycle club for youth and adults who would like to take trips and outings using the bicycle as a means of transportation.

Anyone interested in bicycling for fun or exercise is invited to attend the Thursday meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the "Y".

Hagerman appeal filed

GOODING — Robert Weaver, Buell attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown, said today he will file an appeal today to the county commissioners' decision approving two subdivisions in Hageman Valley.

The appeal will be based on the opinion the subdivisions' approval was not in the best public interest or the welfare of the residents of the valley.

Weaver said: Hageman Valley is a significant area of natural beauty and nationally recognized. Because there are no zoning standards in Gooding County at this time and in view of the present growth, he said he will request a postponement of approval until proper planning on an areawide basis is completed.

He said he plans to file the appeal with the county clerk who will then submit it to the district court where a hearing will be scheduled.

The county planning commission approved the two subdivisions April 11. It was then turned over to the county commissioners. The three-man county commission approved the preliminary plats May 7 and the final plats May 14.

One of the subdivisions involves 25 acres owned by John LaMoyne. It is scheduled to include 13 building sites. It is called the Spring Acres subdivision. The other subdivision is owned by Newton and Schaefer, Twin Falls, and includes 15 acres with 11 building sites. It is called Conestoga Station subdivision.

The Browns have obtained signatures of 15 Hageman property owners and residents opposing the subdivisions. They presented their petition to the planning commission on April 11.

There will be no charge and parents are urged to bring their children for these reading sessions. More information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Lierman at 326-5279.

WASHINGTON — The Democratic leadership in the House reportedly is preparing legislative measures that would extend the life of the beleaguered Office of Economic Opportunity into 1974.

The federal antipoverty agency is scheduled to run out of money on June 30, the end of fiscal 1973.

However sources close to the House Appropriations Committee said that the committee is now marking up an appropriations bill for the Departments of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare, and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The appropriation will contain money for the antipoverty agency to allow it to operate for at least six more months, the sources said. Although the bill is not expected to reach the House floor until the end of this month, it will be accompanied by a proposed continuing resolution that would extend the funding for the three agencies into fiscal 1974, they added.

According to several sources, the continuing resolution will be relatively veto-proof because, although President Nixon has said he will abolish the OEO, he would not risk summarily cutting off funds to the other two agencies.

The theory behind the move

TWIN FALLS — Comments are now being accepted by the Idaho Department of Water Administration office here on a proposed boat dock construction near Thousand Springs.

The department of water administration has received an application from the department of fish and game for altering the stream channel of the Snake River. The fish and game department says the altering will be necessary for the construction of two boat launching ramps in the river in the vicinity of Thousand Springs.

A ramp will be constructed with a bulldozer, placing gravel blanket to support concrete blocks for the ramp. Comments should be mailed to Department of Water Administration, 1041 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., Twin Falls 83301.

is two-fold. According to one source, it will give Community Action Agencies more time to seek local funding sources and it will give Congress more time to decide whether it should replace the Office of Economic Opportunity with some other program, or, to "dig in" and support OEO against a likely veto when its legal authorization runs out at the end of fiscal 1974.

In recent months, the battle over the fate of OEO has resembled a classic struggle between the President and Congress. However, in April the third branch of the federal government stepped in, in the form of a court decision by Judge William B. Jones of United States District Court here.

Jones ordered the agency's acting director, Howard Phillips, to stop blocking normal funding operations within the agency. As long as Congress expresses a will that OEO should go on, Jones said, Phillips has no power to stop it.

Yesterday, Phillip R. Kete, president of Local 2577 of the American Federation of Government Employees, the local which represents OEO headquarters, charged that Phillips has been using fiscal 1973 money to pay employees to "mass-produce" speeches against the continuance of OEO for use by congressmen who oppose it.

Kote noted that his union has previously submitted an affidavit to district court sworn by Susanne Horton, an OEO typist, who asserts she typed a "substantial number of political speeches" at the request of four higher-elevation aides.
